

Arch MI Privacy Notice

Last Revised: December 6, 2023

At Arch MI¹, we know that personal information is important to you, and we want you to know that we take your privacy seriously.

Please take the time to read this Notice. It explains what we do with personal information about you and what measures we take to protect your privacy.

In short, we collect various types of personal information when you visit our website, when you sign up to receive special email offers, promotions and industry information, when you (as a representative of a lender) apply for mortgage insurance, when you apply to us for a job, when you make a payment to us or when you submit a query via our website, email or over the phone. If you have a mortgage with a lender we insure, there are times when we may confirm information on your loan application or collect additional personal information directly from you.

If you are a representative of a lender, we encourage you to provide this Notice to your borrowers.

Arch MI may possess more personal information about you, but that is often by virtue of our having received the information in our role as a mortgage insurer. In those instances, we also encourage you to review your lender's privacy notice or policy.

With respect to personal information we collect about you, you may be entitled to certain rights, so we encourage you to read this Notice carefully and contact us if you have any questions.

Who Are We?

We are Arch Mortgage Insurance Company and various affiliated entities, and our address is: Arch MI, 230 N. Elm St., Greensboro, NC 27401.

What Is "Personal Information"?

When we use the term "personal information" (otherwise known as "personal data" or "personally identifiable information"), we mean nonpublic information that identifies, relates to, describes, is reasonably capable of being associated with or could reasonably be linked, directly or indirectly, with a particular consumer or household. It is a broad definition and may include pieces of information like your name, address, phone number or email address.

Certain pieces of information that are not personal information include publicly available information, de-identified information or aggregate information. By "aggregate information" or "de-identified information," we mean information that does not allow us to identify or contact a specific individual. For example, the number of users of our website is aggregate information, which does not reveal users' identities. We will not attempt to re-identify de-identified personal information.

Links on the website to other websites are provided only as a convenience and the inclusion of such links does not imply endorsement of the linked site. We encourage you to read the legal notices posted on those sites, including their privacy policies. We shall have no responsibility or liability for your visitation to, and the data collection and use practices of, those other sites.

What Are My Rights?

You may have various rights with respect to the information we have about you, depending on your state of domicile, the particular information and the context in which it was obtained. These rights are defined under a variety of privacy laws and regulations, each of which may or may not be applicable to our relationship with you or certain information we have about you.

We may choose to offer these rights to you in the interest of transparency and as an enhanced service to our customers, even if we are not required to under applicable law.

Privacy Rights under GLBA and the Fair Credit Reporting Act

In general, to the extent we receive, obtain or generate information about you in connection with providing a financial service or product within the United States, your rights with respect to that information are generally governed by the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA). We may receive this kind of information in connection with mortgage insurance provided to lenders but typically you are not our consumer or customer as those terms are defined in the GLBA. Nonetheless, as required by GLBA, as a recipient of the information we protect that information to keep it confidential and secure, and we do not share or use this kind of information other than as necessary for providing the financial product or service. If you have questions about how information about you is collected and used in connection with a personal mortgage, please contact your lender.

In connection with providing financial services or products, we may also receive or obtain information about a borrower's creditworthiness subject to the Fair Credit Reporting Act. We need to handle and share this personal information to run our everyday business. We may use and share this information for the following purposes:

- For our everyday business purposes — such as to process transactions, maintain accounts, respond to court orders and legal investigations, or report to credit bureaus.
- For our marketing purposes — to offer our products or services.
- For our affiliates' everyday business purposes — only information about your transactions and experiences with Arch MI.

You cannot limit the use or sharing of FCRA data for these lawful purposes. Federal law gives you the right to limit only:

- Sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes — information about your creditworthiness.
- Affiliates from using your information to market to you.
- Sharing for non-affiliates to market to you.

We do not share information for these purposes. Should we share information for these purposes in the future, we will notify you before doing so and you will have the right to opt out of that sharing.

Without prejudice to any other administrative or judicial remedy you might have, you may have the right to lodge a complaint with regulators where you live if you believe that we have infringed applicable privacy or data protection requirements when processing your personal information.

If you chose to exercise any of these rights, to the extent that they apply, state law prohibits us from discriminating against you on the basis of choosing to exercise your privacy rights.
